JORC Code

It is a requirement of the ASX Listing Rules that the reporting of ore reserves and mineral resources in Australia comply with the Joint Ore Reserves Committee's Australasian Code for Reporting of Mineral Resources and Ore Reserves ("JORC Code"). Investors outside Australia should note that while ore reserve and mineral resource estimates of the Company in this document comply with the JORC Code (such JORC Code-compliant ore reserves and mineral resources being "Ore Reserves" and "Mineral Resources" respectively), they may not comply with the relevant guidelines in other countries and, in particular, do not comply with (i) National Instrument 43-101 (Standards of Disclosure for Mineral Projects) of the Canadian Securities Administrators (the "Canadian NI 43-101 Standards"); or (ii) Industry Guide 7, which governs disclosures of mineral reserves in registration statements filed with the SEC. Information contained in this document describing mineral deposits may not be comparable to similar information made public by companies subject to the reporting and disclosure requirements of Canadian or US securities laws. In particular, Industry Guide 7 does not recognise classifications other than proven and probable reserves and, as a result, the SEC generally does not permit mining companies to disclose their mineral resources in SEC filings. You should not assume that quantities reported as "resources" will be converted to reserves under the JORC Code or any other reporting regime or that the Company will be able to legally and economically extract them.

RISK FACTORS

DACIAN
GOLD

Risk Factors

This section identifies the areas that the directors regard as the major risks associated with an investment in the Company. Investors should be aware that an investment in the Company involves many risks, which may be higher than the risks associated with an investment in other companies. There are numerous widespread risks associated with investing in any form of business, with investing in the exploration, development and mining industry, and with investing in the share market generally. There is also a range of specific risks associated with the Company's business. Many of these risk factors are beyond the control of the Company and its directors because of the nature of the business of the Company. The following summary, which is not exhaustive, represents some of the major risk factors which potential investors need to be aware of.

COVID-19 and associated market risk

The global economic outlook is facing uncertainty due to the current COVID-19 pandemic, which has been having, and will likely continue to have, a significant impact on global capital markets, the gold price and foreign exchange rates (including the USD / AUD exchange rate).

To date, the COVID-19 pandemic has not had any material impact on the Mt Morgans Gold Operation (MMGO). However, supply chain disruptions resulting from the transmission of pandemics such as COVID-19 in the community and measures implemented by governments around the world to limit the transmission of the virus may adversely impact the Company's operations, financial position, prospects and ability to raise capital. Interstate travel bans may also lead to shortages of skilled personnel. Further outbreaks of COVID-19 or other pandemics and the implementation of intrastate travel restrictions also have the potential to restrict access to site.

Dacian has implemented a COVID-19 management plan across its business at all locations in order to minimise the risk of infection for individuals and the impact of future potential mitigation measures implemented by the government. Refer to page 39 for details.

Production and cost estimates

Dacian's ability to achieve its production expectations and/or meet operating and capital expenditure estimates on a timely basis cannot be assured. In particular, there are risks associated with the estimates detailed in the 2019 Mineral Resource and Reserve Update and the Production Outlook announced on 27 February 2020, which could impact Dacian's operational and/or financial performance.

The operations and assets of Dacian, as with any other mining operations, are subject to a number of uncertainties, including in relation to ore tonnes, grade, metallurgical recovery, actual realised values and grades of stockpiles (which are also estimated), ground conditions, operational environment, funding for development, regulatory changes, weather (including flooding in the event of heavy rainfall), accidents, difficulties in operating plan and equipment and other unforeseen circumstances such as unplanned mechanical failure of plant or equipment. Costs of production for Dacian may be affected by a variety of factors, including changing waste-to-ore ratios, geotechnical issues, unforeseen difficulties associated with power supply, water supply and infrastructure, ore grade, metallurgy, labour costs, changes to applicable laws and regulations, general inflationary pressures and currency exchange rates. Unforeseen production cost increases could result in Dacian not realising its operational or development plans or in such plans costing more than expected or taking longer to realise than expected. Any of these outcomes could have an adverse effect on Dacian's operational or financial performance. Failure of Dacian to achieve production or cost estimates could have an adverse impact on Dacian's future cash flows, profitability, results of operations and financial condition.

Mining risk and ore reserve and mineral resource estimates

When compared with many industrial and commercial operations, mining and mineral processing projects are relatively high risk. Each orebody is unique. The nature of mineralisation, the occurrence and grade of the ore, as well as its behaviour during mining and processing can never be wholly predicted. Estimations of the tonnes, grade and overall mineral content of a deposit are not precise calculations but are based on interpretation of samples from drilling, which even at close drill hole spacing, represent a very small sample of the entire orebody. Ore Reserve and Mineral Resource estimates are therefore expressions of judgement based on knowledge, experience and industry practice. Though the estimates may be accurate global approximations of gold content, localised grade variability may exist, which could result in short term deviations from production expectations. By their very nature, Ore Reserve and Mineral Resource estimates are imprecise and depend to some extent on interpretations, which may prove to be inaccurate. Reported estimates, which were valid when originally estimated, may alter significantly when new information or techniques become available. As Dacian obtains new information through additional drilling and analysis, Ore Reserve and Mineral Resource estimates are likely to change. This may result in alterations to Dacian's exploration, development and production plans which may, in turn, positively or negatively affect Dacian's operations and financial position.

Commodity prices and exchange rates

The value of Dacian's assets and the economic viability of its operations may be affected by fluctuations in commodity prices and exchange rates, specifically the USD denominated gold price and the AUD / USD exchange rate. These prices can fluctuate rapidly and widely, and are affected by numerous factors beyond the control of Dacian. These factors include world demand for precious and other metals, forward selling by producers, and production cost levels in major metal producing regions. Other factors include expectations regarding inflation, the financial impact of movements in interest rates, gold price forward curves, global economic trends, confidence and conditions, and domestic and international fiscal, monetary and regulatory policy settings. These factors can affect the value of Dacian's assets and the supply and demand characteristics of gold, and may have an adverse effect on the viability of Dacian's exploration, development and production activities, its ability to fund those activities and the value of its assets. Production from the Dacian's mineral properties is dependent upon the Australian gold price being sufficient to make these properties economic.

Risks associated with gold price volatility can be reduced by hedging. Dacian's current hedging arrangements are below the current spot AUD gold price as at the date of this Presentation. This means that Dacian is not currently receiving the full upside of the AUD gold price. However, should the AUD gold price fall below the hedge price, the hedging arrangements would provide a level of AUD gold price protection against the falling AUD gold price. Dacian's existing gold price hedges begin to roll off materially in FY21, with all gold price hedges extinguished in early FY22 unless any additional hedging is implemented. Any adverse movements in the AUD / USD exchange rate while Dacian is not fully hedged could impact Dacian's financial performance as it would impact the AUD gold price received by Dacian.

Compliance with debt finance terms and default risk

At 30 April 2021, Dacian's outstanding debt under the Dacian Facility Agreement totalled approximately $20.2 million. The debt under the Dacian Facility Agreement is secured over the Dacian Group's assets. Any failure to pay amounts owing under the Dacian Facility Agreement when due (or otherwise fail to comply with the terms of the Dacian Facility Agreement) could lead to a default and result in all amounts outstanding under the Dacian Facility Agreement becoming immediately repayable. In such circumstances, a failure to repay amounts owing could result in Dacian's financiers enforcing their security.

Risk Factors

Operational risk

Dacian's mining, exploration and development activities will be subject to numerous operational risks, many of which are beyond Dacian's control. Dacian's operations and maintaining mining productivity rates may be curtailed, delayed or cancelled as a result of factors such as adverse weather conditions, mechanical difficulties, shortages in or increases in the costs of consumables, spare parts, plant and equipment, external services failure (such including energy and water supply), industrial disputes and action, difficulties in commissioning and operating plant and equipment, IT system failures, mechanical failure or plant breakdown, and compliance with governmental requirements. Hazards incidental to the mining, exploration and development of mineral properties such as unusual or unexpected geological formations may be encountered by the Company. Industrial and environmental accidents could lead to substantial claims against the Company for injury or loss of life, and damage or destruction to property, as well as regulatory investigations, clean up responsibilities, penalties and the suspension of operations. The Company will endeavour to take appropriate action to mitigate these operational risks (including by ensuring legislative compliance, properly documenting arrangements with counterparties, and adopting industry best practice policies and procedures) or to insure against them, but the occurrence of any one or a combination of these events may have a material adverse effect on the Company's performance and the value of its assets.

Future capital requirements

The Company may require further financing to continue to operate in the future if, for example, it fails to meet its mining schedule, there is otherwise a material departure from the Company's stated production or cost guidance or as a result of future exploration activities or acquisitions. Any additional equity financing that the Company may undertake in the future may dilute existing shareholdings. Debt financing, if available, may involve restrictions on financing and operation activities. There can be no assurance that the Company will be able to obtain additional financing when required in the future, or that the terms and the time in which any such financing can be obtained will be acceptable to the Company. This may have an adverse effect on the Company's financial position and prospects.

New projects and acquisitions

The Company may make acquisitions of new projects in the future. There can be no guarantee that any new project acquisition will eventuate from these pursuits, or that any acquisitions will result in a return for shareholders. Such acquisitions may result in use of the Company's cash resources and issuances of equity securities, that might involve a dilution to shareholders. The Directors will use their expertise and experience in the sector to assess the value of potential projects that have characteristics that are likely to provide returns for shareholders.

Underwriting risk

The Company has entered into an underwriting agreement with the Lead Manager which has agreed to fully underwrite the Placement, subject to certain terms and conditions. If certain conditions are not satisfied or certain events occur, the Lead Manager may terminate the Underwriting Agreement. There is a risk that the Underwriting Agreement may terminate before the Placement has settled in full. If the Underwriting Agreement is terminated and the Placement does not proceed or does not raise the funds required for the Company to meet its stated objectives, the Company would be required to find alternative financing to meet its objectives. In those circumstances, there is no guarantee that alternative funding could be sourced in the quantum and at the price sought.

Environmental risk

Mineral extraction and processing is an industry that has become subject to increasing environmental responsibility and liability. Current and future legislation and regulations or environmental regulations applying to mining operations may impose significant environmental obligations on the Company. The Company intends to continue to conduct its activities in a responsible manner which minimises its impact on the environment, and in accordance with applicable laws.

Climate change risk

Climate change is a risk the Company has considered, particularly related to its operations in the mining industry. The climate change risks particularly attributable to the Company include:

- the emergence of new or expanded regulations associated with the transitioning to a lower-carbon economy and market changes related to climate change mitigation. The Company may be impacted by changes to local or international compliance regulations related to climate change mitigation efforts, or by specific taxation or penalties for carbon emissions or environmental damage. These examples sit amongst an array of possible restraints on industry that may further impact the Company and its profitability. While the Company will endeavour to manage these risks and limit any consequential impacts, there can be no guarantee that the Company will not be impacted by these occurrences; and
- climate change may cause certain physical and environmental risks that cannot be predicted by the Company, including events such as increased severity of weather patterns and incidence of extreme weather events and longer-term physical risks such as shifting climate patterns.

All these risks associated with climate change may significantly change the industry in which the Company operates.

Key personnel risk

The responsibility of overseeing the day-to-day operations and the Company's strategic management depends substantially on its senior management and key personnel. There can be no assurance given that there will be no detrimental impact on the Company if one or more of these employees cease their employment.

Insurance risk

The Company insures its operations in accordance with industry practice. However, in certain circumstances, the Company's insurance may not be available or of a nature or level to provide adequate insurance cover. The occurrence of an event that is not covered or fully covered by insurance could have a material adverse effect on the business, financial condition and results of the Company. In addition, there is a risk that an insurer defaults in the payment of a legitimate claim by the Company.

Risk Factors

Occupational health and safety risk

Mining activities have inherent risks and hazards. The Company is committed to providing a safe and healthy workplace and environment for its personnel, contractors and visitors. The Company provides appropriate instructions, equipment, preventative measures, first aid information, medical facilities and training to all stakeholders through its occupational health and safety management systems. A serious site safety incident may expose the Company to significant penalties and the Company may be liable for compensation to the injured personnel. These liabilities may not be covered by the Company's insurance policies or, if they are covered, may exceed the Company's policy limits or be subject to significant deductibles. Also, any claim under the Company's insurance policies could increase the Company's future costs of insurance. Accordingly, any liabilities for workplace accidents could have a material adverse impact on the Company's liquidity and financial results. It is not possible to anticipate the effect on the Company's business from any changes to workplace occupational health and safety legislation or directions or necessitated by concern for the health of the workforce. Such changes may have an adverse impact on the financial performance and/or financial position of the Company.

Third party risk

The Company will rely significantly on strategic relationships with other entities and also on a good relationship with regulatory and government departments and other interest holders. The Company will also rely on third parties to provide essential contracting services. There can be no assurance that its existing relationships will continue to be maintained or that new ones will be successfully formed. The Company could be adversely affected by changes to such relationships or difficulties in forming new ones.

Competition

The Company will compete with other companies, including major gold companies in Australia and internationally. Some of these companies will have greater financial and other resources than the Company and, as a result, may be in a better position to compete for future business opportunities. There can be no assurance that the Company can compete effectively with these companies.

Taxation

The acquisition and disposal of Shares will have tax consequences, which will differ depending on the individual financial affairs of each investor. All potential investors in the Company are urged to obtain independent financial advice about the consequences of acquiring Shares from a taxation point of view and generally. To the maximum extent permitted by law, the Company, its officers and each of their respective advisers accept no liability and responsibility with respect to the taxation consequences of applying for Shares under the Offer.

Securities investments and share market conditions

There are risks associated with any securities investment. The prices at which the securities trade may fluctuate in response to a number of factors. Furthermore, the stock market, and in particular the market for exploration and mining companies may experience extreme price and volume fluctuations that may be unrelated or disproportionate to the operating performance of such companies. These factors may materially adversely affect the market price of the securities of the Company regardless of the Company's operational performance. Neither the Company nor the Directors warrant the future performance of the Company, or any return of an investment in the Company.

Force majeure

The Company's projects now or in the future may be adversely affected by risks outside the control of the Company, including fires, labour unrest, civil disorder, war, subversive activities or sabotage, floods, pandemics, explosions or other catastrophes, epidemics or quarantine restrictions. See above for discussion on the impact of COVID-19 on the Company.

Economic risk

Changes in both Australian and world economic conditions may adversely affect the financial performance of the Company. Factors such as inflation, currency fluctuations, interest rates, industrial disruption and economic growth may impact on future operations and earnings.

Government and legal risk

Changes in government, monetary policies, taxation and other laws can have a significant impact on the Company's assets, operations and ultimately the financial performance of the Company and its Shares. Such changes are likely to be beyond the control of the Company and may affect industry profitability as well as the Company's capacity to explore and mine. The Company is not aware of any reviews or changes that would affect its current or proposed interests in tenements. However, changes in political and community attitudes on matters such as taxation, competition policy and environmental issues may bring about reviews and possibly changes in government policies. There is a risk that such changes may affect the Company's exploration and/or development plans or its rights and obligations in respect of the tenements in which it holds interests. Any such government action may also require increased capital or operating expenditures and could prevent or delay certain operations by the Company.

Litigation risk

The Company is exposed to possible litigation risks including native title claims, tenure disputes, environmental claims, royalty disputes, other contractual disputes, occupational health and safety claims and employee claims. Further, the Company may be involved in disputes with other parties in the future which may result in litigation. Any such claim or dispute if proven, may impact adversely on the Company's operations, financial performance and financial position. The Company is not currently engaged in any material litigation.

Speculative investment

The above list of risk factors ought not to be taken as exhaustive of the risks faced by the Company or by investors in the Company. The above factors, and others not specifically referred to above, may in the future materially affect the financial performance of the Company and the value of its Shares. The Shares to be issued pursuant to the Offer carry no guarantee with respect to the payment of dividends, returns of capital or the market value of those Shares. Potential investors should consider that the investment in the Company is highly speculative and should consult their professional advisers before deciding whether to apply for Shares pursuant to the Offer.

COVID-19 Response

Health and safety of our workforce is Dacian's highest priority

- Dacian has been proactive in its response to the COVID-19 pandemic and has implemented a range of protective and preventative measures
- MMGO, through its COVID-19 management plan, is continuing to operate unaffected by the pandemic, however a number of changes have been made at the operation such that persons at the site have reduced exposure to potential sources of COVID-19, are able to abide by social distancing requirements and improved hygiene standards
- In a worst-case event requiring a scaling-back of the operation, Dacian has multiple levers it can engage including the processing of stockpile material totalling 4.4Mt @ 0.6 g/t for 79,000oz (approximately 19 months of processing material), providing a level of insulation for the business
